Program

- Day 1 The participants arrive and are greeted by the guide, who will then brief the group on the plans for the next several days and hand out any rental gear. Spend the afternoon reviewing the basic course content again to prepare for the next few days.
- Day 2 Today, first on the agenda is the true crown jewel – the Piz Bernina (4049 m). After an easy climbing section on the Fortezza, you cross to the terrace-like slopes flanking the Bellavista. Taking the Spallagrat route, you make your ascent to the summit before climbing down a short section to the Marco e Rosa hut on the Italian side of the border. (Distance: 8 km, walking time: 9 hrs, ascent/descent: 1400/400 m gain/loss)
- Day 3 Today, you'll check off all three peaks of the Piz Palü. First, you cross the entire Bellavista plateau to reach Forcla Bellavista. You then climb your way along an easy passage to the western summit. From there, you follow the snowy ridge to the main summit and the highest point of the Piz Palü (3901 m). After taking plenty of time to rest at the summit, you continue along the narrow ridge to the eastern summit, where you pass through the Cambrena icefall, past the Piz Trovat and to the top of the Diavolezza, your final destination. (Distance: 8 km, walking time: 7 hrs, ascent/descent: 500/1100 m gain/loss)
